Varig's Boeing 707 to Hana.

As soon as the plane landed, I saw Brazilian President Goulart's ~~off~~ special representative, ~~...~~ to Cuba (to offer his good offices to me & Castro).

The Soviet Ambassador came to <sup>see</sup> me on the first day (Tuesday, Oct 30).
(a tanned young man <sup>disheveled gray hair</sup> — he wanted to buy in his name — the Soviet General connected with the missile installations — who was waiting outside — young & dressed in heavy threads — known <sup>— Russian name —</sup> Spanish a little — some years in Latin America —)

Castro would be delighted to have UN inspection if the UN would inspect the American bases rising Cuba + preparing aggression.

Three plus hours in Hawaii Embassy district (low?)

There were sandbagged anti-aircraft emplacements along the drive a man in tattered dress was waving us the cars - one American destroyer just beyond three-mile territorial waters off Cuba.
rifles slung on their shoulders
militiamen for militiamen on the streets

A group of milium unloaded fourteen boxes + crates from a truck. I was not aware that some an amount of equipment had been crated + put aboard.

Piled up inside the garage (to be released on the plane when I left)

Riskys explain to

The general services dept felt it would be quite a savings to load all the equipment <sup>needed</sup> aboard the plane (with no extra tax).
